

“My goal is that my teaching, research and public service work at Georgia State will focus on taking care of the city, making it a healthier, more productive and more beautiful place for people who call urban neighborhoods home.”

—John T. Marshall,
Assistant Professor of Law

“Our librarians tailor services and resources to specific needs. Students are entering a market where 89 percent of newer attorneys surveyed by NCBE reported research methodology is an expected skill; our librarians are teaching those skills in creative ways.”

—Kris Niedringhaus,
Associate Dean of Library and
Information Services and
Associate Professor of Law

FURTHERING OUR MISSION: New faculty member John T. Marshall works with our students to build community relationships through a scholarly and practical approach to environmental law and urban land use through the Center for the Comparative Study of Metropolitan Growth. Kris Niedringhaus and her staff help prepare students for practice through the Law Library.

KRISTINA NIEDRINGHAUS

Associate Dean of Library and Information Services and Associate Professor of Law

- Previously law library director at Cleveland-Marshall College of Law at Cleveland State University
- Member of CALI Board of Directors, Chair-Elect of Society of Academic Law Library Directors
- Teaches Advanced Legal Research
- J.D., University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill; M.A. of Education in Information Science and Learning Technologies, University of Missouri-Columbia

Niedringhaus brings a wealth of library management, information systems and teaching experience to her role overseeing the library. She looks forward to helping shape the new building's law library to "encourage community and impromptu experiential learning opportunities."

JOHN T. MARSHALL

Assistant Professor of Law

- Previously Ludwig Community Development Fellow and Lecturer at Yale Law School
- Member of Georgia State's Second Century Initiative, "Shaping the Future of Cities"
- Teaches Environmental Law and Land Use Law
- Formerly partner with Holland & Knight LLP

Marshall's research focus is on urban resiliency and redevelopment, partially motivated by his work in post-Katrina New Orleans as a Rockefeller Foundation Fellow and counsel with the New Orleans Redevelopment Authority. Marshall encourages his students to help shape Atlanta's future as they develop skills in making change. "In just a few years, if not already, the students will have a hand in guiding the changes and choices that can transform a city's future."
